

Building a healthy Australia
Purposes	Investment Create knowledge and build research capability through investment in the highest-quality health and medical research and the best researchers	Translation Drive the translation of health and medical research into public policy, health systems and clinical practice and support the commercialisation of research discoveries	Integrity Maintain a strong integrity framework underpinning rigorous and ethical research and promoting community trust
	Strategic and Health Priorities
	Consumer and Community Involvement
Strategy	Operating Environment – Cooperative Relationships – Risk Management
	Capability Operate effectively within a strong governance framework that supports performance, integrity, efficiency and compliance Maintain a positive work culture Foster operational resilience Leverage digitalisation to reduce administrative burden Support data accessibility, reuse and transparency
Operating Context	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Align administration and governance of the NHMRC grant program and Medical Research Future Fund Measure impact of the Gender Equity Strategy 2022-2025 Optimise grant application and assessment processes Promote, communicate and measure research impact 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Maintain a leadership role in development of evidence-based public health, environmental health and clinical guidelines Drive translation of health and medical research in accordance with the Research Translation Strategy 2022-2025 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Support the Embryo Research Licensing Committee as it regulates the licensing of research, training and a clinical trial of mitochondrial donation in Australia Promote the highest standards of research quality and integrity
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Research grants meet the health needs of Australians and support a gender inclusive health and medical research workforce Research funding is invested effectively and efficiently Research grants improve health outcomes for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people Research grants support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander researchers 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Australian health system is supported to be research-led, evidence-based, efficient and sustainable Case studies demonstrate the impact of health and medical research funding 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Research is conducted responsibly, ethically and with integrity in Australia Research involving human embryos is conducted ethically and legally in accordance with appropriate licence conditions
Key Activities
Performance			